

Abstract

An embolic protection device including an elongate shaft having a proximal end and a distal end. A magnetically permeable section can be disposed proximate the proximal end of the shaft and an embolic protection filter can be disposed on the elongate
5 shaft. And a captivation tool including a magnetic section can be magnetically couplable to the magnetically permeable section disposed on the shaft.